Makes Good at Odeon
and Musical Numbers Are Good.
Billy Malone's Musical Comedy Company, which opened at the Odeon yesterday, is playing to packed houses and well merits the applause and enthusiasm of the audience.
Billy Malone himself and Artie Lewis, two comedians of rare ability keep the house in an uproar from start to finish. Not only is the comedy far beyond the average, but the musical numbers are more than worthy of mention.
"I Want a Little Love from You," sung by Billy Lewis is especially attractive and he is forced to many encores. Georgia Mack proves herself to be a real comedienne and gives a good account of herself in the operatic selection, "Adele." She has a beautiful soprano voice and puts her numbers over in big musical comedy style.
For Wednesday and Thursday this splendid company will present "The Isle of No Man."
The motion picture offerings today include a two-part Essanay feature entitled "The Convict's Threat" with George Anderson and Marguerite Clayton in the leads; and an Edison drama entitled "The Call of the City" featuring Bessie Learn.

Edna Mayo and Bryant Washburn are on at the Bijou today in "The Family Divided," a three act drama. The story deals with the views of H. H. Sheldon, the author, on the separation of husband and wife and its effect upon the children. The play has been intelligently directed and as acted by Miss Mayo and Mr. Washburn is an unusually interesting presentation. "Dreamy Dud" and a Pathe News are also shown today.
Wednesday, the Knickerbocker Company will present Miss Florence Rockwell in a three act special feature, "The Purple Night." This being Miss Rockwell's first picture appearance great pains were taken to make it a huge success. She is supported by an all star cast, including Noah Berry and Lionel Adams of "The Man of the Hour" and "The Christian" fame.

more picture lovers than any stellar combination now being shown on the screen, appear today at the Robinson Grand in Otis Skinner's greatest stage success, "The Silent Voice." Every lady attending the Grand today will be presented with a photograph of Mr. Bushman. The added attraction on this occasion is Salisbury's wonderful wild life picture.
Tomorrow, Violet Heming, Broadway's youngest star will be presented in "The Running Fight," adapted from William Hamilton Osborne's interesting story of the same title.
Irene Franklin has left the "Hands Up" company which is playing in Philadelphia, and Fanny Brice has taken her place, it is announced from that city.
Miss Dottie Duel and her famous "Casino Girls" are pleasing large crowds at the Palace theater, where they are playing a week's engagement.
Among the cast are Misses Mae Allen, Agnes Allen, Anna Wisner, Ethel La Crosse, Elaine La Crosse, Jeanette Lehne and Alice Sohne. The comedians cast with Ed Lowry are Al Ridgeway, Harry Enser and Howard Harrison. Eight of the newest and most popular song numbers are sung by the chorus not including the solo's sung by the principals.
Besides the musical comedy, which lasts an hour, a well selected program of pictures is shown.
As a special attraction the Casino Quartet sings a number of all new songs. The program will be changed as usual tomorrow and again Friday.

One of the best plays produced in recent seasons bears the title "It Pays to Advertise," and Cohan and Harris the big theatrical managers, count it as one of their best successes. The play proves its title and every rustic old business house in the country that has "something the matter with it" should send its representative to see the play and find out the reason, for there are thousands of rich old conservatives like Cyrus Martin, the head of the soap trust in the play, who need a few practical illustrations of the fact that "it pays to advertise."

telephone wires and constructing barbed wire entanglements.
This trip comprised almost two hundred miles of travel in what may be roughly described as a triangle with Neuport, Dunkirk and Ypres at the three corners.
"I do not suppose that we can go into Ypres," asked the correspondent.
"You would be a fool to try and you would be a dead man if you got there," was the chauffeur's answer.
Between Dunkirk and Ypres one can find all grades of demolition. What happened to Dunkirk by the action of a Krupp gun over twenty miles away almost everybody in the world knows now. But what happened to that gun it would be of great interest to know and neither the French nor the Germans are saying anything about it. But the people of Dunkirk know that it has not been in action for two months.
Fall of Refugees.
As one travels inland from Dunkirk towards the southeast through Bergues he can readily appreciate why France, Holland and England are full of refugees wearing their hearts out with thoughts of their demolished homes, for there are to be seen little villages with not a building inhabited, hardly one unmarked by shell fire. Handsome sixteenth century facades, modest brick structures, artistic little churches have all gone into war's melting pot. The streets are as devastated as the sections of San Francisco or Baltimore after their conflagrations.
The French are holding the dunes along the coast, then come the Belgians, then more French, then the English, then still more French, then the English again, and finally the long line of French reaching to Switzerland. It is not often pointed out that the French are sandwiched in between their allies in this fashion.
Stopping before a 105 meter gun, cleverly concealed in a grove, a gun which had been silent but a few moments and was "doing its bit" in an artillery action spreading over one hundred miles, a correspondent asked the lieutenant in charge when he intended to fire again.
"Whenever they telephone us," was the reply. "We have fired only twice this morning." When the line of action is as long as the route from New York to Philadelphia, each gun has an easy time of it and there is plenty of opportunity for conversation. Indeed, when the correspondent approached the group they were laughing at a story of the lieutenant. He was telling them of a devoted orderly. The lieutenant had been sent to the hospital as a result of poison gas. "I should have left the hospital after three days," said the lieutenant, "but my orderly would not let me."
"Have any shells burst around here yet?"
"Not very near," this gun is pretty well concealed if the enemy's artillery see it we can easily move it." "You can't see any Germans from here, can you?"
No Germans Seen.
"I have been at the front eleven months," said the lieutenant. "I have seen many dead Germans and many German prisoners, but I have never seen a German in action, except the men in the Taube.

ROY E. PARRISH, Esq., Solicitor.
Notice to Creditors.

A half dozen privates gathered round and the conversation became general, being interrupted occasionally by visits to the observatories in the trees where the correspondent was shown the German lines and could see the shrapnel bursting over both sides. It all seemed too remote. The correspondent observed: "It does not seem very close to us."
"Perhaps not just this minute but in the road there not over fifty feet away they blew up one of our caissons a few days ago and you can go out and pick up some souvenirs if you wish to."
These observatories would be fascinating additions to Adirondack camps, being successive nights of stars with strong landings, winding round the highest trees, painted the color of trees and covered overhead with foliage. There is no military secret about this for it is well known that both sides have the same kind of lookouts.
"You men all seem very happy," said the correspondent. "We certainly are, we know what we are fighting for; we are well treated and we know that we shall win. It is men that will win the war pour la Patrie." When a French soldier says "pour la Patrie," he says it with a thoughtful earnestness that gives one a firm faith in democracy.
The firing was evidently within short motoring distance to the southeast and the correspondent got up to leave. "Sorry we could not entertain you with our 105 meter," said the lieutenant, "but we never know when we shall get the telephone call."
In an artillery action of such magnitude gunners wait for orders like policemen or firemen, by telephone, and like policemen and firemen they are very glad to see callers in the intervals of their activity.

WINCHESTER
CARTRIDGES
For Rifles, Revolvers or Pistols
The most accurate shooting rifle, revolver or pistol made will do unsatisfactory work unless the cartridges used in it are as accurate as the arm. For that reason it is important when buying to get cartridges that have an established reputation for quality. Winchester—the W brand of cartridges in all calibers from .22 to .50 are unexcelled for accuracy, penetration and uniform shooting qualities. They cost no more than inferior makes and are for sale everywhere. If you want to get the most satisfactory results with your rifle, revolver or pistol, always use Winchester ammunition. Do not simply ask for "some cartridges" when you buy, but be sure to specify Winchester make and look for the bold W on the box.
